

Did You Know?

BART CoPilot

Do you feel tied to your desktop when viewing your trips? Do you sometimes lose a receipt or forget to add an expense because you could not record it right away? Well, it sounds like you need BART CoPilot. CoPilot is a real-time app for your mobile device or computer that works both online or offline. Changes made by dispatch are immediately visible on CoPilot, so there is no longer a need to resend trip sheets to the crew each time there is a change. Crew members can get their schedules and post their flight info. The crew can enter their expenses, attach photos of the receipts, and create an expense report for the trip on the spot. BART CoPilot puts you one step closer to a paperless flight department!

The crew can email maintenance with any issues and also view the status of any due maintenance, as well as the status of open/closed issues. All this is available to view from the app. There's even a version for the passengers!

BART CoPilot has many calendar view options, including a lobby view that refreshes every 5 minutes, dropping off flights after they have completed. This versatile app makes it easy to view contract fuel prices from the start menu. The crew can view all the contracts at all locations, making CoPilot an indispensable tool in the cockpit.

With BART CoPilot it is easy for owners and admins to locate flight details such as confirmation numbers on hotels, cars etc. It gives you all this information, and more, in an easy to read format. CoPilot also contains a document library where you can scan and store documents for company, aircraft, a specific trip or passenger, and for crew members. CoPilot updates automatically, so there is no down time waiting for an update to install.

In just a few taps you can quickly notify passengers of delays. Viewing the weather at each airport is a breeze with BART CoPilot. Need to contact the FBO? Just tap on the day or the aircraft and you will see the FBO phone number, frequency, and map. A single tap shows you all passengers and all leg comments, on a single screen and all available without an internet connection! This can actually serve as a trip sheet as well.

Frustrated with transcribing written flight logs then entering them after a trip? With BART CoPilot you can input details as you go with error checking and automatic calculations. They will be electronically submitted to BART Recordkeeping. The best part? Flight Log Details can be entered without an internet connection!

Need to see which crew are flying? Curious if that vacation day was approved? You no longer have to call dispatch to find out. Just tap Crew Schedules to see the details!

BART CoPilot was designed to give you the freedom you desire and the functionality you expect, while still being easy to use. Would you like to learn more or see it for yourself?
